Of these 13 modules, one module—Creating Searches—is optional. There are several things to consider in deciding whether or not the Creating Searches module will be helpful to you. ERS:

- Automatically provides Principal Investigators with easy access to their own Effort Reports and to a list of Effort Reports for all employees who work on their projects.
- Allows users to create very specific searches to identify sub-sets of Effort Reports, using various search criteria provided in ERS.
- Allows administrators to create refined searches which can be shared with and used by Principal Investigators.

If:

- You believe that you will use only the standard searches that are automatically provided by ERS, or
- You will rely on an Administrator to create specialized searches for you

Then there is no need to complete the Creating Searches Module.

If:

- You believe that you will want to view or access Effort Reports in specialized groups, and create your own searches, then you may benefit from completing the Creating Searches module.

You don't need to make a decision now. Before you can decide you will need to understand how ERS works, and how you can access Effort Reports.

Getting Started

We suggest that before you start, you print out the list of training modules at the beginning of this module. You can then use this as a checklist as you complete the modules and if you are interrupted or need to stop before you have completed all the modules, you will be able to pick up where you left off when you return to the program.

It should take approximately 60 minutes to complete the modules. Let's get started by reviewing the Principal Investigator Welcome module.
